

Peter

I know a young man, let me call him Peter, who knows how to empty himself. He doesn't go to Church much, but I have no doubt that he has God in his life. You see, he has been living his dream for years building a beer brewing business...then added a pizza and then bread and then bagel business...then added a wine making business...then started a vineyard...then...then...

The awards came, but the most impressive thing make my ministries seem paltry. From the start he gave 50% of the profits to local charities that made an impact on people's lives...and when he didn't have profits he dug deep and made sure he gave something.

That in itself would be amazing, but Peter has a low profile "Both And" approach to life...and so he hires former inmates and people recovering from addictions ...and makes breakfast for kids in the neighborhood...and donates bread to the needy...and...and...
